Ice Fishing Derby set for Feb. 7

The Clover Bares Snowmobile Club is sponsoring its annual Fishing Derby Saturday, Feb. 7, on Cloverleaf Lakes.

The all-day ice fishing event is headquartered in a tent in front of Mickster's and the town boat landing. Food and beverages are available and numerous prizes are awarded.

Raffle tickets are available costing three tickets for $5 at area establishments and at the event.

Prizes are $500, $250, $100, $75 and $50.

Fishing prizes will be awarded in the adult and children categories. Weigh-in for fish will be from noon to 4 p.m.

Plenty of frigid weather has created a deep layer of ice on the lakes and ice fishermen are off to a good start this winter.

The Clover Bares maintain a network of snowmobile trails in Belle Plaine and adjoining towns.

Tree trimmers will target branches over roads

By Alvin Bartz

What a difference a year makes. Last year we had spent more than $30,000 through December for snow removal and sanding. This year through December we spent about $9,500.

New construction is at a slower pace compared to a few years ago. We had 24 building permits in 2014. Of those, four were for new homes, one due to a fire.

One of the more frequent complaints we get on road maintenance is tree branches hanging over the road. The school bus companies, county trucks, UPS and other tall vehicles have clearance lights broken by the branches, especially in cold weather. Canopy over the road, even without leaves, makes a difference creating icy spots on the road.

We will be doing some trimming on Cloverleaf Lake Road from County Y east to Town Line Road this winter. We have had numerous downed trees in this area, usually in the overnight hours. We also have a few areas where branches hide stop signs and other road information signs.

The town has signed a Joint Powers Agreement with Shawano County and all municipalities within Shawano County. The agreement provides that if an emergency vehicle is dispatched to a 911 call, the vehicle will provide services whether or not it is operating in its usual area. This covers firefighting, law enforcement, ambulance, medical and other emergency services.

I filled up my vehicle yesterday for $1.99 a gallon. One has to wonder were we getting "ripped off" when we were paying $4-plus a gallon for gas? Lower fuel costs should help budgets if the savings get passed along.

I hope the winter is going well for you. I'm ready for a January thaw.

Winter hours for the Collection and Recycling Center on Cloverleaf Lake Road are Saturdays from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. The Recycling Center is longer open on Wednesdays. Residents can use the curbside garbage pickup on Thursdays. Recyclables are picked up on alternate Thursdays, including Jan. 29, Feb. 12 and 26, March 12 and 26, and April 9 and 23. Garbage pickup is on Fridays during holiday weeks.

Property taxes will be collected by Treasurer Heather Krueger on Jan. 22 from 5 to 7 p.m. and on Jan. 30 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Taxes can also be mailed in. The address is Heather Krueger, W9660 River Bank Road, Clintonville, WI 54929. Refunds are in the mail for those who paid their taxes before a computer error was discovered on property owners in the Cloverleaf Lakes Sanitary District. Krueger thanks taxpayers for their patience and understanding in this unusual circumstance.

*The Town Board meeting in February has been moved to Feb. 2 at 7:30 p.m. Usual date is the second Monday.

Coming soon: Improved fish habitat in lakes

By Dennis Thornton

Here's hoping for another subzero cold spell.

That's not my wish, but it is what the Belle Plaine Sportsman's Club is hoping for in early 2015. The club needs thick ice so it can proceed with plans to cart large trees onto the ice covering Cloverleaf Lakes.

Craig Ford, president of the Sportsman's Club, said he's hoping for about 20 inches of ice. As of early January, the ice was about 12 to 15 inches thick.

The Sportsman's Club, supported by the Town of Belle Plaine and Cloverleaf Lakes Protective Association, plans to use heavy equipment to bring large trees over the ice to form what the DNR has dubbed "fish sticks." Clusters of three to five large trees would be chained together along the shoreline of Gibson Island, then anchored when spring comes and the ice melts.

Over the next several years, more than 30 of these "fish sticks" would be anchored along Gibson Island and perhaps off Round Lake Park.

The town has been granted a DNR permit for the project, with the CLPA and Sportsman's Club splitting the cost of the permit. A grant application has been filed to cover costs in future years, with volunteer labor counting for much of the local share.

The goal is to increase the places in the lakes where fish can take cover and spawn, thus improving the fishery for anglers.

CLPA president's message

Studies have shown that trees in the water are sought-after by many species of fish.

Weather permitting, the first batch of "fish sticks" will be placed in late January or early February. Anyone interested in helping can contact Craig Ford or other club members.

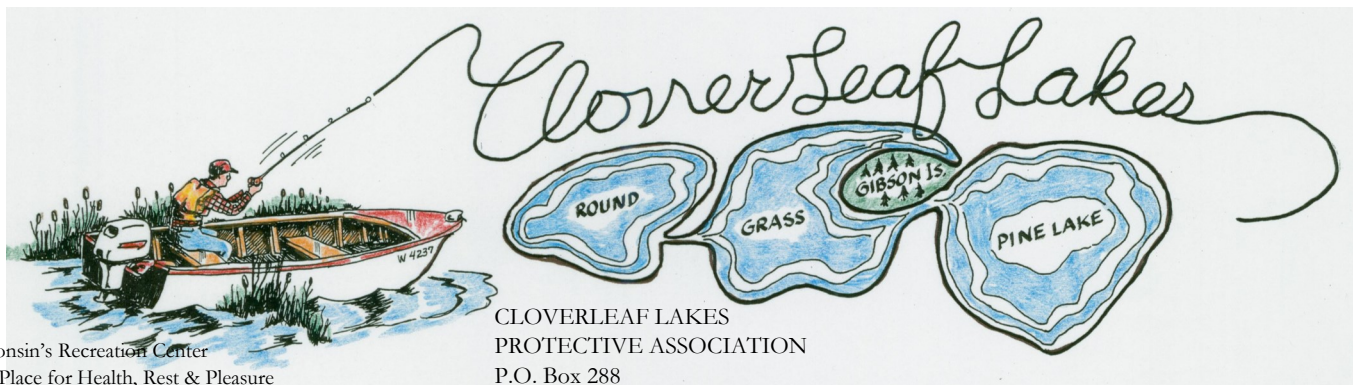

* Your lake association board continues to work on our lakes' number one invasive: Eurasian Water Milfoil.

Consultant Onterra conducted two days of surveying our aquatic plants on every square foot of the lakes in early September. They will be advising on treatment options for 2015, likely some chemical treatment of Grass Lake.

Russ Kafka, Denny Nodolf and I attended a meeting of eight area lake associations in October where the chief topic was the same: how to combat milfoil. The Department of Natural Resources is advising whole-lake treatment every few years, which was done in 2012 on Grass and Round, and 2013 on Pine Lake.

We are also exploring, in cooperation with Long Lake, a new option of constructing a boat with a suction device that would suck milfoil plants out of the water. Divers would handle the milfoil removal.

Last, I will be attending a DNR meeting in February to learn the latest research into milfoil treatment.

Volunteers at the Raptor Education Group Inc. in Antigo hold two “baby” eagles, including one that fell from a tree on Cloverleaf Lakes in June.

Eagle ready to take off

By Joy Krubsack

Thanks to months of rehabilitation, a baby eagle was scheduled to be released into the wild near Sauk City on Jan. 17.

The female eaglet fell from its nest on Cloverleaf Lakes around June 17 and was spotted by Tom and Barb Kivlin. Unable to fly yet and injured, the bird was taken to the Raptor Education Group Inc. in Antigo. Marge and Don Gibson founded the center for rescued birds of prey,

Now fully grown and accustomed to living with other eagles, the eagle was to be released along the Wisconsin River.

An eagle that fell from a tree on Cloverleaf Lakes is now fully grown and ready to be returned to the wild. The eagle was scheduled to be released on Jan. 17 in Sauk City.

Town's updated recreation plan includes trail, park improvements

The Town of Belle Plaine in November adopted a revised Outdoor Recreation Plan. Here are some projects the town will attempt to undertake during the next five years.

Develop a shoreland trail along County Highway Y, connecting the Lake Aire restaurant parking lot and the town's Round Lake Park with its trails to the boat trailer parking lot and the picnic shelter. Included would be replacement of the culvert that connects Round and Grass Lakes near the town boat launch site. The proposed plan has about one-third mile of five-foot wide trail with three-foot wide paved, including over the culvert.

Install “fish sticks” and encourage shoreland restoration on Cloverleaf Lakes. The DNR's fish sticks project would install clusters of trees along the shore of Gibson Island and Round Lake Park to enhance the fishery and protect the shoreland from wave action. The shoreland restoration, including adding native plants and rain gardens, would prevent stormwater runoff.

Improve Round Lake Park. Playground equipment would be added along with perhaps horseshoe pits or volleyball courts to provide recreation opportunities.

Encourage bicycling, cross country skiing and snowmobiling. Two groups, Shawano Pathways and the Clover Bares Snowmobile Club, have developed routes through the town, including over the new Highway 22 bridge. Future road construction could add a bike path where possible.

Promote the hiking trails on Gibson Island. A brochure would be developed to include a map, history of the area and features such as trees, plants and wildlife.

Consider adding access to Schoenick, Long Lakes. Parking spots on Cloverleaf Lake Road near Schoenick Creek would allow access to nearby waterways for kayaks and canoes.

Kris Doan running for Sanitary District post

Kris Doan is running unopposed for Commissioner of the Cloverleaf Lakes Sanitary District in the April election in Belle Plaine. Wayne Vander Linden resigned from the commission in December and declined to seek another six-year term.

Doan was raised in Green Bay and spent summers at the family cottage on Pine Lake of the Cloverleaf Lakes. She retired and remodeled the family cottage into a home in 2007.

Doan has a Bachelor's Degree from UW-Oshkosh and a Master's Degree from Chicago Theological Seminary. She worked for Jefferson County Human Services for 23 years.

She is the owner of a small business called The Legacy Cen-

Long Lake plans brat fry

Start the summer season with a traditional Wisconsin sandwich!

Friday and Saturday, May 22 and 23, the Long Lake Association is hosting a Brat Fry at Econo Foods in Clintonville. Brats, hotdogs, chips, soft drinks and water will be available to enjoy at on-site picnic tables, or take some home for a quick and easy meal.

We look forward to meeting our lake neighbors! Profits from the sale will be used to continue improving the water quality of Long Lake.

Chemical can be harmful

The DNR has warned about use of Imprelis turfgrass herbicide that can cause damage to evergreen trees, particularly Norway spruce and white pine. Clippings from grass treated with Imprelis should not be composted. The DNR will allow the landfill disposal of trees affected by the chemical throughout 2015.

ter. She is a state certified social worker and her business is a State Certified Guardianship agency. The Legacy Center helps elderly and disabled clients in Shawano County.

After retirement Doan pursued volunteer work as a Master Gardener. She served on the Cloverleaf Lakes Protective Association Board for three years and contributed to the Shawano County Aquatic Invasive Species Strategic Planning process as a committee member.

Doan said she is interested in working to preserve our lakes and protect the environment around the lakes. The Sanitary District has positively contributed to the water quality of our lakes since the early 1980s. If elected, Doan hopes to continue this important work for our community.

Restaurant has new owners

A Belle Plaine restaurant has new owners and a new name. Sofie Abdiu and her brother-in-law Harry Abdiu purchased the former Max's Restaurant from Max and Buki Shabani in early January. The new owners' liquor license was approved by the Town Board on Jan. 12.

The new name of the restaurant is Grandma Sofie's. The new owners operated a restaurant in Friendship for 10 years. Originally called Amico's, the restaurant is located at the intersection of Highways 29 and 22 next to the Borders Hotel at W7389 River Bend Road.

Harry Abdiu said there will be some minor changes on the menu but nothing significant. He said all 15 employees are still working and he has invited them to stay on.

The restaurant includes a bar, two dining areas including a meeting room and a kitchen that was updated.

Eagle nesting season starts

The boardwalk to Gibson Island, located off Cloverleaf Lake Road, will be closed from Feb. 1 until the end of May during the nesting season for the bald eagles that have a nest nearby. The island will be available by ice or water during that time.

No motor vehicles, including snowmobiles, are allowed on the island at any time.

Snowmobilers are urged to avoid the large bed of reeds in Grass Lake, off the town's boat launch site. That is a "sensitive area" designated by the DNR that provides a nesting haven for waterfowl. Also, snowmobiles and trailers can use the boat trailer parking lot on the Round Lake Park site across the road from Mickster's.

'Retired' Hesse is jack of all trades for town

By Joan Sousek

Lifelong town resident Richard "Dick" Hesse may or may not be retired.

Officially, he left his full-time job with Yellow Freight Systems of Little Chute about seven years ago, but now you'll often find him working for the Town of Belle Plaine doing a variety of jobs like plowing snow, mowing lawns and ditches, removing fallen trees, putting up signs and maintaining equipment.

"We (town officials and employees) work together and cover for others," the 64-year-old Hesse said. "I try to help when I can."

Hesse is the son of the late Henry and Maxine Hesse. His brothers Jim (Judy) and Martin "Butch" (Pam) Hesse also live in Belle Plaine. His sister Rita (John) Kopitzke lives in Tiger-ton, and his sister Patricia Kohn is deceased.

His commitment to the town runs in the family. His dad was town chairman before current Chairman Alvin Bartz. Henry Hesse also was the town assessor before the town hired an appraisal firm, and Butch Hesse served as a town supervisor.

But Dick isn't interested in public office.

"I'd rather not be in the limelight," he said. "I'd rather stay behind the scenes a bit."

The summer after Dick retired, Bartz approached him about working for the town.

"I was tending bar at the firemen's fair stand when Alvin asked me about plowing snow," Dick said. "It was something to do in the winter months, and it wouldn't screw up my retirement, so I said yes."

Dick was the first one to drive the town's new truck. Not long after he started, Bob Soyck, who also worked for the town, decided to quit and Dick took on more jobs.

Those duties include maintenance of town properties such as Gibson Island, Sandy Beach, the boat landing, town dock and picnic shelter. Recently, the Highway 22 wayside was added to the list.

In fall, sign replacement becomes a bigger task, Dick said.

"It seems to happen when kids are going off to school and want the signs for their dorms."

Maintenance of town vehicles is another key commitment.

"I like to keep the vehicles greased up and keep an eye on stuff like tires. I do oil changes on the smaller ones and take them in for big stuff," he said.

His hours can vary dramatically, from around 40 to near 80 per month. Routine chores can be planned, but his job also entails being on call. He is paid for the hours worked, rather than full time.

"You never know from one day to next what you might have

Dick Hesse gets ready to do some snowplowing with a Belle Plaine town truck. He also mows ditches, removes fallen trees and puts up signs among other duties.

to do. There might be nothing for a while or one thing after another," Dick said.

His duties also can call for diplomacy.

"You're never going to keep everyone happy," he explained. "There are stressful situations and sometimes you have to soothe residents a bit."

But overall, folks in the town get along, he said, and it's the people that make him want to help.

"The people are special," he said. "I've known a lot of them my whole life. There's a good rapport among the people and it's nice to know people that have your same values ... If there's a problem people come (to a meeting) and try to reach some consensus which is fair to everyone."

When Dick is not working, he enjoys tinkering on cars and sometimes painting. He likes to go sturgeon spearing with his nephew and usually goes gun deer hunting at least on opening morning.

Town Chairman Alvin Bartz said Hesse is a reliable and versatile worker who does a great job. "He makes my job easier," Bartz said, saying Hesse has a special touch in communicating with people.

Dick lives with his wife Sally on Willow Lane, on the northern border of the town. Sally recently retired from BMO Harris (M&I) Bank after 45 years, and now helps with town mowing, too. Dick also worked for the Shawano Police Department for nine years and for Morning Glory for 16 years.
